Pendry Residences Nashville use Gaggenau to take Paseo South Gulch to new heights of luxury

Music City's hottest new address

Demand for luxury resi in Nashville has grown in the last few years, and now SomeraRoad is delivering the supply.

For our latest Developer Diary, TRD and BSH visited Music City for a look inside Pendry Residences Nashville, which will deliver 146 luxury residences to the market in late 2027. This collection of branded residences combines a distinctly Nashville aesthetic with the level of luxury buyers expect from the Pendry Hotels brand, all located in the city's premier live/work/play neighborhood, Paseo South Gulch.

"Pendry represents that next caliber of luxury that this market needs," says Ian Ross, Founder and Managing Principal at SomeraRoad. "With Pendry, we're going to raise the bar, the service level, the design level, the finish, quality food and beverage, the amenity packages both for the residential offering and the hotel offering."

A key element of that elevation is the appliance package that will be found in the residences' kitchens. SomeraRoad chose Gaggenau for the kitchens at Pendry Residences Nashville because they know the venerable brand sets their project apart from the competition.

"Gaggenau appliances specifically have been incredibly well-received," says Andrew Donchez, Partner and Head of Development at SomeraRoad. "Everyone that comes to our showroom immediately understands the quality, and that this is a step above anything else they've seen in Nashville."

When complete, these kitchens will feature the latest offering from Gaggenau, the Bauhaus-inspired Expressive series oven, a soon-to-be-iconic piece that features a floating steel control ring as its focal point.
